The Administration Building

Foreword

The present is only the past entered through a different gate.

With pen and picture, the editors of the Modulus have endeavored to portray Tri-State College so that when reminiscing through its pages, you will be making the past ever-present.

With the rest of the editors of the 1954 Modulus, I should like to express my gratitude to all those who contributed to this record and who cooperated with us.

Portraits

We have no right or reason to Expect a perfect life
But we must undergo our share of struggle and of strife
We cannot look for everything
To work out quite all right
With Sunshine in the sky all day
And silver star at night
But sometimes we must have a tear
A sorrow or regret
Or some unfortunate affair
We wish we could forget
And so the best that we can do
Is try to be prepared
For any disappointment or Distress that must be shared
To go along from day to day
With courage at our side
And take whatever happens in
Our ordinary stride.

We Dedicate Our Modulus To—

1886 MARSHALL D. WILLENNAR 1953

A Teacher from 1908 to 1953

This book is dedicated to Marshall D. Willennar who was employed in the Department of Mathematics and Science at Tri-State College from January, 1942 to January, 1953 when he was granted a leave of absence because of ill health. He failed to regain his health and departed this life April 26, 1953.

Mr. Willennar was a devoted and loyal teacher; devoted to the profession and loyal to all with whom he came in contact.

He was never too busy to lend an attentive ear to one of his students who might be experiencing some difficulty with his studies. His own personal welfare and health were secondary to his loyalty to his associates and the student body; manifesting a continued interest in the progress of his students up to the point of his departure from this terrestrial sphere.

Mr. Willennar stated on more than one occasion that students who received failing grades in his classes had not failed, but he, their teacher, had failed in that he had not properly taught the subject matter.

Being a great lover of flowers and a gardener of no mean ability, it is certain he would, even though in the stillness of death, say thanks for bouquets and compliments; but eulogies are useless words. Suffice it to say he was A Good Man, A Gentleman, A Scholar, and A Great Teacher.

Those of yon who may have had the opportunity of studying under him should consider it to have been a rare privilege indeed.

THE INVISIBLE TRI-STATE

Whether your memory reaches back to the first day, June 17, 1884, of the first term of Tri-State, or whether you had your baptism of inspiration in the gay 90's or the atomic 50's, we shall find that the school has been from the very first down to the present moment, a fountain of life-giving education and inspiration to every serious minded student who has entered her gates.

The history of Tri-State cannot be told without going back to its visible beginning. Angola itself and many people from many parts of the country contributed to this beginning. It is to these trail-blazers more than to any other to whom credit is due for establishing the college for the youth of old Steuben. These pioneers worked with untiring zeal and courage. No discouragement stopped them. There had to be money but the greatest problem of all was where they would find a Moses to lead them to the Promised Land.

The first call went to L. M. Sniff, Head of Department of Mathematics at Ohio Northern University. He declined the offer. C. E. Kircher was hired as principal but left after a few months. It was at this time that the citizens of Angola gave the second call to L. M. Sniff. When he came to look over the proposition he faced six and a half acres of campus, most of it in a state of wilderness, the enormous equipment of a globe and a few blocks, a debt of $5,000, 35 students without faith and money—more lack of faith than money—but in the midst of it all an opportunity to try out his ideals in education. Later in life when he and his partners were asked why they had not accepted the positions and honors which involved large sums of money that had been offered them he said: "We have been solving a problem in education and have been so deeply absorbed in that solution that we have forgotten all else. The problem is this —Prove by actual facts that a brave and strong young man or woman can get a respectable education equal to six years of conventional college work in one hundred fifty weeks at an expense within reach of the poor. Whom we invite—We invite those who are hungry for education but may be badly behind. You may have felt that the world had condenmed you as poor in material because you are not a high school graduate or because you have delayed the making-up. It is yet to be proven that a young man must be made up by the time he is 20 or 25, or that he is poor cloth, shoddy, because he is not a high school graduate. It is much better for material to be shrunk before it is made up. Then you can and you will plow a clean, straight and well-turned furrow through your college career. The authorities by precept and example try to help young people to discover themselves, so they can enter the world conscious of their powers and in control of them—a foundation upon which to build a career."

A New Student

Admission Procedure

Nowhere have the spirit and ideas been better expressed. These were the dreams and ideals of the founders. They have been and are the ideals of the men who have carried on to the present.

The waters of yesterday will never turn the wheels of today. There must be changes. It is one thing to build a fine institution but quite another task to keep it on a firm foundation and at the same time go on expanding. Every institution must be forward and outward looking. The changes at the college reflect this attitude.

From the founding the college has had a school of Commerce and an engineering school known first as a scientific course.

Vitally connected with the educational work of the college, in its first quarter, were organized two literary societies, The Philomathean and Crescent. These societies were succeeded by the engineering Societies and the Commerce Club. Along with this change was the development of College Clubs, which later were taken over by the National Collegiate Fraternities.

The interest in Ahtletics has fluctuated through the years. At one time it was baseball, again tennis and then basketball. It is not necessary to say that at present athletics is considered a vital part of student life.

Those of you have gone through the buildings are familiar with the physical aspects of the school—quite a long way from the six acre lot, a clump of trees and a globe of 70 years ago. Tri-State has its external in the way of grounds, buildings, equipment and men. But it also has an invisible personality which is its spirit. For nearly 70 years the roots of this institution have gone down and down. As we think of the thousands of students who have gone to the four corners of the earth to become leaders of men, it is impossible to estimate properly the value of the truly great souls who have labored here.

What have these figures left us as a treasure of permanent worth? Is it not their ideals? Their vision, courage, sacrifice and labor pioneered an institution into existence. We are their debtors far beyond our ability to repay.

We must believe now that the same heroism and ideals of the past must in one way or another be repeated in the history of Tri-State.

As to the future—it is for us to draw the admiration of the world.

Dr. Theodore T. Wood

President of Tri-State College

President's Message

TO THE GRADUATING CLASSES OF 1953-1954:

You have graduated from the college of your choice and have become the possessor of a baccalaureate degree evidencing the satisfactory completion of a prescribed course of study in a particular field, also of your choice. In so doing you have become a member of a rather select group since college graduates are greatly outnumbered by non-graduates. For this alone, if it were your only accomplishment, you are to be congratulated.

But this is not your only accomplishment. The learning process in which you have been an active participant during your college days has cultivated in you an ability to think and reason in a manner superior to those who have not had the advantage of a college education. For having had the ambition to learn you are to be congratulated.

Each of you will soon engage in an occupation for which you have been fitted by your education and training. At the same time you will become members of the community in which you live and work. It is then you will have an opportunity to put to work the sum and total of your college acquired assets, always and ultimately for the betterment of mankind and the world in which he lives. As and when you accept and discharge this responsibility you will have added practicality to your degree, accomplishment to your ambition and credence to our faith in you.

Alpha Beta Alpha, the honorary commercial society, was founded in September of 1938. The Society was originated to recognize outstanding scholarship and leadership among students in the Department of Commerce. The objects of the Society are to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to promote leadership, and to develop character.

A combination of ability and earnest effort is required to become a member, indeed a worthy honor as is shown by the active support and interest taken in the Society by the alumni members who frequently attend its quarterly banquets.

Under the guidance of Professor H. R. Hoolihan, Head of the Department of Commerce, and H. W. Hoolihan, Associate Professor in Commerce, the Society encourages its members and all future members to maintain a high scholastic standing. To be eligible for membership, a student must maintain an average grade of "B" for four successive terms with no more than one "C", or an average grade of "A" for three successive terms. The high ideals, set by Alpha Beta Alpha as a standard, could well serve as a goal for all students of the Department of Commerce.

In the spring of 1948 the foundation was laid for Skull and Bones, C. O. A., an honorary society. Membership in Skull and Bones, C. O. A. is by election and based on the student's participation and leadership in campus organizations and activities. The purpose of this honorary organization, national in scope, is to recognize outstanding leadership of students in extra-curricular activities, to encourage and promote student activities, to stimulate student brotherhood and spirit, and to forever honor to the highest degree the traditions and prestige of Tri-State College.

Tau Sigma Eta, honorary engineering society, was incorporated under the laws of the State of Indiana, on April 10, 1930. Membership in this society is one of the rewards received by students for outstanding scholastic achievements in the School of Engineering.

Requirements for admission into membership are four quarters of college work with a minimum of twenty hours work during each of the four quarters; a scholastic average of 2.1 out of a possible 3.00; with not more than five C's or C-plus. A grade of D or lower disqualifies a student from membership. An average of A for three successive quarters automatically creates eligibility for membership. Members of the society must maintain an average of 2.0 to be considered active.

Tau Sigma Eta encourages brotherhood and good fellowship, a well balanced social program, and the maintenance of high scholastic records. A banquet is held each quarter as a climax to the quarter's activities and aids in encouraging and fostering the ideals of the society. The used book sale at the beginning and end of each quarter is one of the organization's functions.

Tri-State Student Directors

The Tri-State Student Directors group was instituted during the winter quarter of 1954 and has been officially recognized by the college as an honorary organization of distinction and prestige. The purpose of the group is to be of service to the college. Membership is by selection only and is based on scholastic achievement, leadership, cooperation, dependability and willingness to serve. Functions include service during registration and orientation programs and other college affairs. Tri-State Student Directors serve under the direction of the Dean of students.

Student Directors not shown include Robert Fuller, Roland Finn, Albert Guilford, Dean Lawrence, Robert Levonian, Pauline Mason, Carl Raney and Kwan Rim.
The four students pictured below aided in the organization of the group.

The Inter-Fraternity Council is the fraternity man's Congress, serving to unite the mutual interests of member fraternities and to promote better and closer relationships within the faculty, student body, and fraternities.

Two representatives from each fraternity recognized by the college are authorized to attend meetings each week to plan and direct fraternity activities on the campus. Operating with the full cooperation of the faculty, the council plans social and athletic activities for the student body. Fraternity representatives, acting with the guidance and on suggestions of their fraternities, exercise initiative and leadership in supervising the affairs of the council.

The Inter-Fraternity Council has grown to be one of the most effective organizations on the campus, through the action of well-qualified fraternity representatives.

Lambda Chapter of Alpha Gamma Upsilon came into being May 8, 1949, when the members of Delta Epsilon Chapter of Phi Sigma Chi, a leading fraternity on the campus since the fall of 1927, decided that affiliation with a rapidly-growing national collegiate fraternity would give its members and alumni greater prestige and popularity. The growth of the chapter as well as that of the national organization has proved the soundness of the decision made by the charter members.

In addition to a well-rounded social calendar climaxed by our national convention in the spring of each year, Alpha Gamma Upsilon observes two special days. Founders' Day is celebrated each year on October 10 to commemorate the founding of our fraternity on that date in 1922 and to honor our founders. Omega Day is observed each year on the Sunday nearest to February 1, and is dedicated to the memory of our brothers who have passed away.

The keyword of the aims of Alpha Gamma Upsilon is brotherhood. We believe that only by applying this basic principle of Christianity can the members of a fraternity live and work together in harmony and build lasting friendships. To become a true fraternity man is the goal each member is constantly serving to reach. By selecting as members only those whom we believe possess the qualities essential for becoming such fraternity men, we hope to secure even greater success for Alpha Gamma Upsilon in the coming years.

Alpha Sigma Phi was founded at Yale University in 1845 and is the tenth oldest national social fraternity. It is one of the larger fraternities and is a charter member of the National Interfraternity Conference.

The Beta Omicron Chapter dates back to 1925 when it was known as the Phi Lambda Tau Fraternity. Four years later, Phi Lambda Tau merged with Alpha Delta Alpha, a national fraternity. In 1935, Alpha Delta Alpha disbanded but through the efforts of its local members, a chapter of Alpha Kappa Pi, another national fraternity, was obtained. Eleven years of prosperity passed before Alpha Kappa Pi decided to merge with another great fraternity to form Alpha Sigma Phi.

On September 6. 1946, the local chapter became the Beta Omicron Chapter of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

Alpha Sigma Phi stands for charity, culture, loyalty, patriotism, and perpetual friendship. Its members face a future made brighter by the flame of the personal relationships kindled in the walls of Alpha Sigma Phi.

Beta Phi Theta was founded at the Milwaukee State Normal School in 1917. Plans for expansion were made in 1923, and since that time strong fraternity groups from other institutions have become affiliated with Beta Phi Theta.

The history of the Delta Chapter of Beta Phi Theta on the Tri-State College campus dates back to 1922 when a group of young men banded together as "The Four Eleven Gang," their sole purpose being the promotion of good fellowship. From this organization, Lambda Phi Epsilon was born. As the membership of this fraternity grew and the college gave recognition to fraternities in 1929, members realized the advantage of national membership and the Delta Chapter of Beta Phi Theta was formed.

Delta Chapter has never lost sight of the ideals of its founders during its twenty-five years of good fellowship, leadership and scholastic achievement at Tri-State College. Our policy of selecting for brotherhood men of courage, initiative, and fortitude has insured lasting life and leadership for our fraternity. Our house at 112 South Darling Street, although not the largest, is one of the most home-like, and is truly a "home away from home" for our brothers during their stay at Tri-State.

Beta Sigma Tau's chapter at Tri-State College had its beginnings on October 13, 1950, when Theta Mu Pi officially affiliated with the national fraternity, Beta Sigma Tau.

Beta Sigma Tau was founded in May, 1948, at Chicago. The first convention consisted of seventy-five delegates from eleven colleges. A constitution based on equality, understanding and unity was adopted.

Beta Sigma Tau is unique because membership is not restricted because of race, creed or religion. Prejudice on a college level is ignorance, and not intelligence.

In 1937 the Jewish undergraduates on the Tri-State campus formed a Jewish fraternity. This chapter was active until the outbreak of World War II when the chapter was temporarily discontinued because of the membership going into the Armed Forces. After the war, Theta Mu Pi, Alpha Chapter, was formed. In the winter of 1949 Theta Mu Pi elected to become a non-sectarian organization. The aim of the new organization was to foster the educational, social and spiritual life of its members. This chapter became Beta Sigma Tau at Tri-State.

Indiana Gamma chapter of Kappa Sigma Kappa, international social fraternity, took its place among the campus fraternities on March 17, 1952. While new in name the fraternity has proved its worth as one of the older organizations on the campus.

Kappa Sigma Kappa was founded at Virginia Military Institute in 1867. For many years following the Civil War, new chapters were installed mainly in southern colleges, but since 1935, a chapter has been installed in nearly every state, as well as in several foreign countries.

Today, Kappa Sigma Kappa has more than seventy active chapters.

Composed of Latin-American students, Phi Iota Alpha's history dates back to 1921, when it started its activities as Club Hispano-Americano. After six years of existence as a club, the organization was registered under the laws of the state of Indiana as the Alpha Chapter of Gamma Eta Alpha fraternity.

Joining the ranks later of Phi Lambda Alpha as Eta Chapter, the fraternity did not receive its present designation until 1931. During a national convention on December 26, 1931, Phi Lambda Alpha merged with Sigma Iota to form the present organization, Phi Iota Alpha, of which the organization is Iota Chapter. Under its present title for some nineteen years, the fraternity's aims are to foster a better sense of duty and study among its members and to create that atmosphere which is an integral part of the far-away homes of its members; constantly serving for that great ideal, "The political and economic union of all Latin-American countries," which is the organization's motto and goal.

Alpha Gamma Chapter of Phi Kappa, at Tri-State College, is the result of earnest efforts on the part of the members of the organization once known as Alpha Gamma Omega. In May, 1943, a charter was sought from Phi Kappa National Catholic Fraternity, and on January 24, 1944, the Alpha Gamma Omega fraternity became the twenty-seventh chapter of Phi Kappa fraternity.

Among the many achievements of the chapter in Phi Kappa have been endeavors to maintain the high scholastic standards set by predecessors, as well as participation in all inter-fraternity activities. The main purpose of the group of the Tri-State campus is to aid each member in bettering his efforts in learning; the development of a sense of responsibility and loyalty; the instilling of a fervent desire to contemplate creatively and to act constructively for the advancement of the organization.

Phi Kappa is proud of its accomplishments, and the members are confident their ideals of fraternalism and religion will carry them to ultimate success in their undertakings.

The Alpha Chapter of Sigma Mu Sigma Fraternity was founded at Tri-State College on March 25, 1921, by three Master Masons. This organization was the first fraternity on the campus, therefore it has the distinction of being the oldest recognized fraternal organization at Tri-State.

With the aid of nine other Masons, Alpha Chapter was founded primarily as a Masonic local fraternity of national scope with an aim to maintain high scholastic standards and to embrace the advantages of a social fraternity.

At first, membership was restricted to Master Masons, but it soon proved to be impractical. By 1940 these rules were revised to include sons and brothers of Masons, or those recommended by three Master Masons.

We of Sigma Mu Sigma are proud of our past history and our achievements in the scholastic and social phases. We are continually serving to surpass the goals set by previous memberships. The fraternity's earnest desire is to develop men capable of taking their places in the world with confidence in their ability to meet and associate with other men. Toward this end, the men of Sigma Mu Sigma continue to strive.

When Kappa Chapter of Sigma Phi Delta was founded, one purpose stood out from all the rest. That purpose was to create a greater interest in the engineering profession.

A visitor to the fraternity house could not overlook the many awards earned by the members for scholastic ability. The first requirement for membership in Sigma Phi Delta is a "C" scholastic average. Needless to say, the scholastic averages of the members are far above this.

Sigma Phi Delta exists as one of the three official engineering fraternities of the Professional Inter-fraternity Conference representing the professions of Architecture, Chemistry, Dentistry, Education, Engineering, Journalism, Law, Medicine, and Pharmacy. The membership is international in scope, extending from the British Commonwealth through the United States.

The Aeronautical Society of Tri-State College is a student Branch of The Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences, the national professional organization of aeronautical engineers.

The meetings of the society provide excellent information in the form of special speakers from industry, and pamphlets and circulars, concerning various phases of aeronautics.

The main social event of the term is the Aero Banquet. At this event the officers for the coming term are installed and awards are given to outstanding members. A prominent representative from the field of aeronautics is usually invited to highlight the event with a speech.

The Society was founded to enable chemical engineering students to become better acquainted, to instill in every student a burning interest in his work and a pride in his profession.

These ends are attained by weekly meetings at which select speakers and motion pictures are presented. They are furthered by field trips, which are arranged whenever possible, and through affiliation with the American Chemical Society.

Since July of 1948 the Chemical Engineering Society has been a student affiliate chapter of the American Chemical Society.

I am a civil engineer. In my profession I take deep pride, but without vain glory; to it I owe solemn obligation that I am eager to fulfill.

As an Engineer, I will participate in none but honest enterprise. To him that has engaged my services, as employer or client, I will give the utmost of service and fidelity.

When needed, my skill and knowledge shall be given without reservation for the public good. From special capacity springs the obligation to use it well in the service of humanity, and I accept the challenge that this implies.

Jealous of the high repute of my calling, I will strive to protect the interest and the good name of any civil engineer that I know to be deserving; but I will not shrink, should duty dictate, from disclosing the truth regarding anyone that, by unscruplous act, has shown himself unworthy of the profession.

Since the age of stone, human progress has been conditioned by my forebears. By them have been rendered usable to mankind nature's vast resources of material and energy. By them have been vitalized and turned to practical account the principles of science and the revelations of technology. Except for this heritage of accumulated experience my efforts would be feeble. I dedicate myself to the instruction and dissemination of engineering knowledge, especially to the younger members of my profession in all its arts and traditions.

To my fellows I pledge, in the same full manner I ask of them, integrity and fair dealing, tolerance and respect; devotion to the standards and the dignity of our profession; with the consciousness, always, that our special expertness carries with it the obligation to serve humanity with complete sincerity.

The Mechanical Engineering Society is an organization wherein engineering students can supplement their knowledge of the various phases of mechanical engineering.

Speakers, who are experts in their respective fields, are obtained to present the latest information concerning their products and industry as a whole. Movies are obtained for some of the programs and are also used in conjunction with the speakers' talks.

The society is affiliated with the Fort Wayne Section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The dues paid to this organization are returned in the form of awards to society members who have done outstanding work in writing and presenting their engineering reports to the society.

Field trips sponsored by the society are held each term with one major field trip each spring. Visits are made to various industrial concerns covering all phases of mechanical engineering. On these field trips, the students are able to observe present manufacturing processes and practices and thus better prepare themselves for their future as engineers.

The Radio Engineering Society, organized in October, 1936, provides any student interested in radio and electronics with useful and informative sessions to supplement regular curricular activities.

Meetings are held every Monday evening to promote the aims of the society, including the advancement of the theory and practice of radio and its allied branches of engineering and the related arts and sciences. These aims are promoted and furthered through a program each year of outstanding speakers and film showings.

Among speakers each year are representatives from personnel departments of large manufacturing concerns, with the purpose of acquainting graduates with the process of securing a job. Other speakers include men outstanding in the industrial field, who bring practical experience into the information given to the members of the society.

Membership in the Radio Engineering Society is open to all those interested in the field of radio.

Since the first meeting on February 3, 1949, the student chapter of the Society of Automotive Engineers at Tri-State College has grown to be one of the most progressive societies on the campus.

The national enrollment of the S. A. E. exceeds 15,000 active members in all parts of the United States. Included in the 4,000 student members from seventy-four engineering colleges are sixty-one students from the Tri-State chapter.

Meetings are held every first and third Wednesday of the month. After the business portion is concluded, speakers, movies, and literature are presented for the enjoyment of the active members.

The aim and purpose of this group is to uphold the creed of the S. A. E. "To promote the arts and sciences and engineering practices connected with the design, construction, and utilization of the automotive apparatus."

The Chinese Student Club of Tri-State College was organized in 1932. The purposes of the Club are to strengthen friendship, to promote better understanding among the members and fellow students, to assist fellow members, and to encourage higher standards of scholastic achievement. The Club was inactive during the war years due to lack of sufficient membership. In the beginning of 1947 the Chinese Student Club was reactivated. The Club is proud to have Professor Robert R. Ramsay as adviser, and without his help many of the activities would not have been possible.

The Financial and Legal Society has as its purpose aid to students who may encounter financial or legal difficulties during the time when they are enrolled as full-time students at Tri-State College.

Executives of the Society include the president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer, who handle the administrative functions of the society, and who are aided by a board of five directors, meeting whenever it is necessary to transact important business. Student meetings are held once each quarter to acquaint the members with the functions of the organization and to make necessary adjustments in its operation. Loans may be obtained through application to the president or treasurer, such applications to be approved by the treasurer and by one other officer or director of the Society.

The Financial and Legal Society, Inc., of Tri-State College, was organized by students during the summer quarter, 1952, and received recognition as a legal entity from the Secretary of State of the State of Indiana during the following fall quarter. During its formation, and through its activities, Dr. Fred W. Goudy, Associate Professor in Commercial Law, has devoted time and effort to the work of the Society in making its full resources available to the members.

The purpose of the International Students' Association is to create international understanding and friendship regardless of creed, nationality, or race. A knowledge of the ideas and ways of other peoples is acquired through this group.

The International Students' Association came into being on the Tri-State College campus in 1949. The motto of the organization is "The Essence of Unity is Brotherhood."

Since the inauguration of the Photographic Society in 1946, regular contributions to student and outside publications have made the Society an important factor in promoting Tri-State College pictorially. Besides being invaluable in this respect, the Society provides a pleasant and useful pastime for its members, and gives them access to excellent equipment, supplies, and facilities. The Photographic Society plays an important part on the campus of Tri-State College.

Tri-State Christian Fellowship is a chapter of Inter Varsity Christian Fellowship which is a national organization belonging to the International Fellowship of Evangelical students.

The IVCF chapter at Tri-State is one of nearly 500 groups in the United States and Canada......interdenominational and evangelical......formed to provide fellowship in Christian living through prayer, Bible study and social activities......and to bring before college students the question of God's will and the call to serve Him in every walk of life.

As Jaycees we believe:

A faith in God gives meaning and purpose to life.
A government should be of laws rather than of men.
Economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise.
Earth's greatest treasure lies in human personality.
Service to humanity is the best work of life.

The Tri-State Chapter, Angola Junior Chamber of Commerce, was organized during the winter quarter, 1954, following the "Kollege of Knowledge" program inaugurated on the Tri-State campus by the Indiana Junior Chamber of Commerce, the first such program of its kind on any college campus in the United States. Paul Taylor, December, 1953, graduate, was instrumental in developing the "Kollege of Knowedge" program, and through the interest aroused the Tri-State Chapter was organized.

College Band

The Tri-State College Band was reorganized early in 1947 by Roy C. Bodie, Jr., Director. Through his untiring efforts and the inspiration of his leadership and musical ability the band has grown to be the splendid organization of the present.

The late Professor Almon C. Harshman first organized the Tr-State College Band, setting an excellent example for future bands at the college.

Hailing from all parts of the globe, with a varied background of musical talents, the band plays for campus and sports events, and in addition, presents high school concerts in the area. In these programs, the selections include a wide variation from soft accompaniments for soloists to heavy passages in overtures. A rousing march will often be followed by a light fantasy in boogie-woogie or jazz, proving the versatility of the band musicians.

College Glee Club

During the fall quarter of 1953 the College Glee Club was organized by Mrs. Robert Ramsay, who serves as its director. Weekly rehearsals are held by the Club which has already made several public appearances. Programs have been given for campus events and the group has also given programs for clubs in the community and at high schools in the surrounding area.

In addition to his athletic duties, Mr. Mummert also holds the rank of Associate Professor in Commerce.

In his college days, "Doc" was a member of the "Wonder Five" of Franklin College, and was an all-state guard in football, in addition to participating in track. He is a graduate of Franklin College and has done graduate study at Ball State College.

Engineers 1953-1954

The basketball team, under the direction of Coach "Doc" Mummert, were faced with a tough schedule this season. Although the team did not always get the needed breaks, none could say that Tri-State did not have a fighting team on the floor. With so many of the games being nip and tuck all the way, it just seemed the boys were plagued with hard luck.

Greetings to the New Alumni

On behalf of the Tri-State College Alumni Association, I welcome you to that ever-enlarging group of those who have trod the halls and campus we have loved. We are confident that you will bring honor and loyalty to our alma mater in the years to come, now that you have completed the first steps of your education, and are courageously facing the problems of furthering your knowledge by putting into practice those ideas gained at Tri-State.

In the words of Daniel Webster, "It is a small school, but there are those who love it."

Sincerely,
